Elysium EPL is an Australian professional services firm that works with government and industry organisations to improve their business performance.

Enduring Value

Elysium EPL Philosophy

ETHOS (Credibility)

The standard we hold ourselves to. We are transparent, honest and act with the best intentions and to a high ethical standard. We ensure we have the expertise to solve a problem before we agree to solve it. We believe in providing enduring value, and work to build our clients' capability so they succeed long after we are gone.

PATHOS (The Heart)

The passion we bring to our work. We believe in what we do and put our heart and soul into meeting our clients' needs. We keep people at the centre, working collaboratively and considering stakeholder needs and views every step of the way. We dream big but keep our feet on the ground: we will only do work we are experienced in.

LOGOS (Logic)

The use of logic to deliver successful outcomes. We use logic and the right level of process to deliver outcomes that will succeed. We first ask the question: What is the desired end-state, and then we work back from there. We design comprehensive solutions that provide enduring value through active listening, collaborative planning and outcome-focused project management techniques. We deliver solutions effectively and efficiently, backed up with sound performance goals and peer review.

ETHOS PATHOS LOGOS

We match our specialists to your need or problem, to build your capability so that you succeed long after we are gone.

Services

At Elysium EPL we work with clients to design and realise major transformation projects, as well as to review, design and establish contracts, organisation structures and systems.

The provision of trusted advice by specialists is key to this work and is utilised by our clients as part of a program of work or through stand-alone engagement.

Our specialist consultants come from a range of backgrounds across the military, law, national security and intelligence, industry and broader government.

From these backgrounds they have built expertise in project management, engineering and logistics, strategic communications, change management, media, education, business administration and construction.

All our consultants have security clearances, ranging from baseline to Positive Vetting.

Quality control

All our work is supported by quality control/peer reviewed processes to ensure accurate, timely and consistent product delivery.

“I can always count on the Elysium EPL team to be honest and transparent in the delivery of the contracted body of work.”

Expert Practice

Elysium EPL is proud of our expert practices which specialise in areas that are critical to projects and businesses succeeding.

A people first approach

We see our people as our greatest asset and have a people first approach. This includes providing a supportive environment for our team to share their ideas and grow and flexible work arrangements where the focus is more on achieving outcomes than hours spent at a desk.

“Elysium EPL’s Strategic Communications consultants are a well-balanced team of great human beings who all have different but complimentary core strengths. They provided a comprehensive outcome for us, with no sense of competition or ego. They worked effectively with our staff, gave us fantastic support, were agile and flexible, and were invested in our success. I’d rate them 14 out of 10.”

Clients seek us out as trusted advisers to solve their most complex problems and support them in achieving their outcomes.

“I would like to thank Elysium EPL for the engagement in our program of works...It has been first class and I have appreciated your honesty and approach to the significant issues presented. Compared to some of your much larger competitors, this engagement has been seamless and will provide long term benefits.”

Where we work

Elysium EPL has offices in Canberra and Sydney but works across all capital cities in Australia.
